No, they did not stay; the hotel put them in a regular room. They were upset about the Cheerleaders in town and couldn't find a place to eat. They did not like the hotel; this is what happens when we book during a "black out" event. The hotels are famous for selling our rooms and the guests are never happy with the rooms during these times. Holiday Host is not paying for the room so therefore, we are not charging you.

Can you please advise what's up with this client. My payroll says that they did not stay? Was there a problem? I see there was no charge for the room?
